ABOUT ME

Taylor Radtke is a creative mind who specializes in minimal design that displays a bold message. After three plus years of marketing in the service industry, Taylor takes his social skills mastered from constructing cocktails through college to create a finished project that his client truly loves. Taylor has a great latitude of culture due to his upbringing in Southern California, before transitioning to the mid-Atlantic region to further his career and education. He is passionate about web-design as a functional piece of art, and strive to let his mind continue to peruse the beauty of the digital experience.
